"THE RECORD-HERALD"

A BIG COMBINE OF MORNING NEWS-PAPERS IN CHICAGO.

H. H. Kohlsaat Buys the Record-F. B. Noyes of Washington Will Be Publisher and Part Owner.

Few Changes to Be Made.

Mr. Kohlsaat owned 97% per cent of the him to Mr. Noves leaves the majority of the stock in Mr. Kohlsaat's hands. Mr. Noves will have control and charge of the business part of the paper, the circulation department being placed in the hands of Mr. Albert Beaunisne of the Record. No changes of importance will be made in the personnel of the Times-Herald staff.

Mr. Noyes is at the Virginia Hotel. His family is going to Europe, but will reside in Chicago in the future.

Mr. Lawson's Statement.

The announcement of the sale of the Record is also made editorially in the latter paper this morning. Mr. Lawson, after telling of the establishment of the News and Record, says:

"For the last thirteen years I have conducted both the Record and Daily News as sole editor, publisher and owner. During these years American journalism has so developed that the publication of a single metropolitan newspaper now imposes such responsibilities as seem to fairly and wise-ly measure the activities of one man, as their successful discharge should certainly fully satisfy his every proper ambition."

Mr. Lawson then continues:
"In view of these conditions it seems wise that I should now recognize those reasonable limitations of business activity to which the years entitle me, and content which the years entitle me, and content myself with the labors and responsibilities of one newspaper. Acting upon this conviction, I have sold the Chicago Record to Mr. Herman B. Kohlsaat, who will hereafter issue it in conjunction with the Chicago Times-Herald under the title the Chicago Record-Herald.

PASSING OF THE TIMES.

By the Deal Chicago's Pioneer Paper Loses Its Identity.

From the Chicago Chronlele, By the terms of a newspaper deal officially announced last night by Herman H. Kohlsaat, publisher of the Times-Herald, the Chicago Record and the Chicago Times-Herald have been consolidated and tomorrow morning will appear as the Record-Herald. Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press and publisher of The Washington Evening Star, will be the publisher of the hyphenated paper. Mr. Kohlsaat will devote his entire time to the editorial conduct of the Record-Herald The consolidation of these local morning papers marks the final passing of the Chi-cago Times, founded in 1854 and consoli-dated with the old Herald in 1855 under the History of the Chicago Times.

Chicago's history for the last half century is reflected in the chronology of the three great newspapers, one separate, but now included in the new Record-Herald. when you use the Automatic Blue | The old Times was one of the journalistic pioneers of the city and had a remarkable and varied career of nearly fifty years. It was founded in 1854 by Isaac Cook, James W. Cook, James W. Sheahan and Daniel Cameron. Cyrus H. McCormick, owner at that time of a paper called the Herald, purchased the Times in 1869 and the papers under the name of the Herald-Times, intending eventually to drop the name Times. The new paper was put in charge of E. W. McComas, a Virginian. and politically it represented the views of the southern democracy.

Free Press at that time, came to Chicago that year and on January 1, 1861, bought the Herald-Times and dropped the first half of the title. This was just before the outbreak of hostilities between the north and south. The policy of the paper was aggressive and attracted much attention. Its attitude toward the administration was one of independence and criticism. When the question of freeing the slaves became more prominent than that of saving the Union the Times became more hostile toward the administration and Mr. Storey himself came to be regarded by some as inimical to the safety of the country.

So intense was this feeling that General Ambrose E. Burnside, then commander of the department of the northwest, issued an order suppressing the Times as a seditious publication. June 3, 1861, the day follow phonoaction. June 3, 1861, the day follow-ing, a detachment of soldiers entered the press room and took forcible possession. About 8,000 had already been printed and most of these were destroyed.

Great excitement was created by this action on the part of the government and Mr. Storey appealed to the courts. Meetings were held in the afternoon and evening to protest against what was called an attack on the liberty of the press. President Lin-coln was appealed to and the order was revoked June 4.

By the end of the war the Times had be-come one of the most prosperous papers in the city. In 1866 a new building was erect-ed for its use at the northwest corner of Dearborn street and Calhoun place. It was five stories high, with a stone front. A. Werden of Michigan, who had been a partner of Storey, withdrew and Henry B. Chandler was taken in, but the latter retired in 1870. Up to 1868 the Times had been a strict party organ. After that it assumed an independent position, though leaning toward democracy.

The fire of 1871 destroyed the entire Times building and plant. Mr. Storey made up his mind not to attempt to re-establish the paper, but he was dissuaded from this resolution by Franc R Wilkia and other resolution by Franc B. Wilkie and other members of the Times staff. An office was rented at 105 Randolph street and October 18 the Times was again issued. In March, 1873, the present Times building at 5th avenue and Washington street was completed

Harrisons Secure the Paper. Mr. Storey's health began to fail in 1876. In August, 1884, he was declared by the probate court to be of unsound mind. He died October 27, 1884. Horace A. Hurlbut was appointed receiver of the estate and the Times continued to be published by him until January 4, 1888, when it was sold nim until January 4, 1888, when it was sold to a syndicate consisting of Clinton W. Snowden, J. J. West and others. The late Carter H. Harrison, father of the present mayor, purchased the paper in December, 1891, and after his election as mayor for the fifth time his sons, William Preston Harrison and the present mayor, became

Its Friends. The North Capitol W. C. T. U. held a reception and social meeting in the Sunday school room of the North Capitol M. E. M. Johnson, prominent attorneys of this Church last evening. The guests were received by the president of the union, Mrs. Don P. Blaine, assisted by Mrs. H. T. Brian, Mrs. A. W. Bentz, Mrs. A. N. Canfield, Mrs. William Braley, Mrs. J. W. Carter, Mrs. R. E. Herring, Miss Mary Blore, Mrs. George Carney, Mrs. Mary Hemen-way and Mrs. William Fisher. Rev. Asa S. Fiske, pastor of Gunton Temple Presbyterian Church, made an address on the subject of practical temperance work. He presented an array of statistics in regard to the liquor traffic of Washing-ton, and stated that the common ground for united present effort against the existing saloons of this city is found in the Anti-Saloon League, which, in his opinion, is working with practical ideas for the en-forcement of such laws as are placed on the statute books by the sentiment of pub-lic opinion. He said that a law which is in advance of the sentiment and opinion of a majority of the people of any city or com-munity is difficult, if not impossible, to enforce, and if enforced against the will of the majority would be in direct contraven-tion to the spirit of our government; hence the necessity for the educational and re-formatory work of the W. C. T. U., which

At the close of Dr. Fiske's address the Nordica Mandolin Club, under the direction of Prof. Walter T. Holt, rendered the Ameer selections and Miss Bernice Spies gave a recitation. At the close of the progave a recitation. At the close of the program a social hour was spent.

Mrs. Charles Burnett and Mrs. Martin Ebert presided at the refreshment table, which was beautifully decorated in yellow and white, suggestive of spring. A corps of a dozen or more young ladies, in white gowns with touches of yellow, assisted in

The polls at all of the voting precincts in this city and in the three districts of Alexandria county were opened at sunrise this morning for the democratic primary which is to nominate a candidate for dele gate to the state constitutional convention. From the number of votes cast this morning it is indicated that the final count will record a fair expression of public interest in the matter. The opposing candidates are Col. Francis L. Smith and Mr. John

The campaign, which has been conducted in a quiet but energetic manner throughout, was closed last evening in Alexandria county with a mass meeting at Carne's school house; in Washington district. A large crowd was present and the meeting was addressed by Capt. Randall Mackey and Mr. Andrew A. Lipscomb. They urged the importance of sending the right man the importance of sending the right man to the convention and advised their hearers to vote for John M. Johnson. In this city a printed statement, signed "A Friend," was circulated last evening in the interest, it is stated, of Col. Smith's campaign. The card set forth that the colored people should be educated in proportion to the amount of taxes they pay. In regard to limited suffrageit was stated that this should be restricted or eliminated, so as to insure the white people of the state against negro domination.

Prof. L. M. Blackford of the Episcopal

High School will deliver a lecture on the "Passion Play of 1900," Tuesday evening, April 9, in Norton Memorial Hall, St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Chapter of Hope of St. Paul's Parish Guild, and will be illustrated by stereopticon views. The western internal revenue district of Virginia, of which Mr. Park Agnew of this city is collector, will lose four deputy collectors under the retrenchment policy of the Treasury Department. Mr. Agnew thinks, however, that the reduction will not materially affect the operation of his FACTS REGARDING COMMERCE. Proposed Establishment of a German Information Office.

Consul Hughes at Coburg, in a communication to the State Department, says that a commission of the German board of trade has considered the question of the establishment of an information office for foreign commerce. In some quarters it is doubted whether such an institution can be of any real service, as it may compete with bureaus already existing. Its promoters urge, however, that the united kingdom, United States and France having anticipated Germany in this respect, that country dare not long remain behind. To finance the office it is proposed that 3,000 firms shall each contribute annually $25;
